Why give only $0.25?

Because it adds up.

And because it builds the habit of being a giver – someone who spends every day being there for others.

It's why the Lubavitcher Rebbe encouraged Jews to give as often as possible. "It's better to give many times than to wait and give one large amount," the Rebbe said.

When you give daily, you accomplish a mitzvah so great, it's considered equal to all other mitzvot combined. If we give, G-d promises that He'll increase our capacity and give us even more wealth. We have the chance to access this blessing every day.

That's why it's great to give only $0.25 – but of course, no one will complain if you give more.
